1. Business Overview

Overview

Company Overview

- Established in 1870, Deutsche Bank is a German multinational investment bank, traded on the Frankfurt and New York Stock Exchanges, and operating in 58 countries.
- Under the leadership of its chief executive Christian Sewing, Deutsche Bank underwent a restructuring in 2019 through Project Cairo, resulting in a successful transformation into a more streamlined, focused, and profitable organization.
    - In 2020, Deutsche Bank was honored by Euromoney with the "World's Best Bank Transformation" award. This accolade acknowledges the bank's effective strategic realignment, which involved exiting cash equities trading and equity derivatives, decreasing Risk Weighted Assets, and achieving notable cost reductions.
- Its renewed focus on advisory businesses has also paid dividends, with its M&A division placing in the top 10 in M&A league tables - by deal value - in EMEA in 2021 (79 deals worth USD 187.7bn), and its ECM team bookrunning several significant IPOs (e.g. About You, Vantage Towers and Synlab).
- Deutsche Bank has also established a growing leadership in ESG bonds, ranking as the 5th arranger of ESG debt by market share in 2021, including a £10bn green bond for the UK Debt Management Office.

Selected Awards

- The Banker Investment Banking Awards 2021: Investment Bank of the Year for Western Europe.
- Global Capital ECM Awards 2021: ECM Bank of the Year for DACH (Germany, Austria, Switzerland).
- TMT Finance's M&A Awards 2021: TMT IPO of the Year - The IPO of Vantage Towers on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange, where Deutsche Bank acted as, alongside other banks, Joint Bookrunner and Underwriter.
- Finance Asia Awards 2020: Megatrend Deal of the Year (ESG), where Deutsche Bank acted as global coordinator for Star Energy's USD 1.1bn green bond.

2. Application Process

Process

The Summer Internship process consists of 4 steps - Application form, Online Assessments, Video Interview and Assessment Centre. The first 3 appraise your fit with the culture and values of Deutsche Bank as well as your analytical and verbal skills. The final step, the Assessment Centre, is the culmination of the application process and comprises a full day of face-to-face interviews and exercises.

APPLICATION FORM

To apply for this program, you'll need a minimum of a 2.1 or equivalent in your first undergraduate degree.

ONLINE ASSESSMENTS (1 HOUR)

You'll need to complete a situational test of 18 questions based on business scenario.

VIDEO INTERVIEW (30 MIN)

You'll receive questions that they need to answer via video, and each answer is recorded. It is not live.

ASSESSMENT CENTRE (1 DAY)

AC is a full day of face - to face interview as well as workshops and group presentations.

WELCOME

Congratulations!
You have been offered a summer internship.

These 3 selection stages eliminate a majority of candidates; thorough preparation is required to pass them.

The final stage in the process, the Assessment Centre is particularly challenging. Candidates are typically informed of the outcome within 3 weeks.

Process (1/2)

1. Application Form

- The form consists of general questions about your past experiences and educational background.
- Apply as early as possible since recruitment is conducted on a rolling basis. .
- Make sure that you meet the academic requirements: the attainment of a 2:1 undergraduate degree at minimum (or on track).
- It is important to conduct research in advance on the team that you are seeking to join (e.g. M&A. ECM/DCM, Sales & Trading etc.).

2. Online Assessments

- You will be asked to complete a situational and numerical reasoning test.
- The situational test consists of 18 questions based on job-related situations where you will have to pick the most effective and the least effective response. Section 3D of this document (from p.13) provides sample examples of the type of questions to expect.
- Identifying the skill or the quality being assessed will help you to successfully pass the cultural appraiser.
- Some of the key qualities valued are teamwork, initiative, rigour, curiosity as well as strong communication skills.
- Questions from the numerical test require only basic arithmetic such as percentages, ratio and fractions.
- You need to be at ease with interpreting charts, graphs, and tables.
- Consult the MOOC “Summer Internship-Online Tests” for a comprehensive guide to acing the online tests.

Process (2/2)

3. Video Interview

- 6 to 8 questions based on:
  - your knowledge of the culture at Deutsche Bank
  - your personal experiences
  - your corporate finance skills
- Take 1 minute to read the question and 2 minutes to answer.
- Make sure to practice with some examples prior to commencing the video recording.
- Speak naturally without reading from your notes.
- Remember to smile.

4. Assessment Centre

- Final step of the application process.
- Full day of face-to-face interviews with senior banking professionals and the HR.
- Group exercises and presentations with other candidates meant to evaluate your capacity for team work as well as your leadership potential and ability to communicate effectively.
- Interviewers will assess your behavioral attributes as well your technical knowledge in finance.
- Show your willingness to learn, your openness and your proactivity.
- Make sure to put your best foot forward and to display a positive attitude throughout the battery of exercises and interviews..

3. Sample Questions

Hirevue Questions

6. You have now 2 minutes to add any further comments you may have.

Online Assessments: Situational Test (1/18)

QUESTION 1

You're preparing a financial report for a client to show how they're performing relative to their competitors. This is the second year that your department is delivering this report to the client, and the report is due tomorrow. You notice similar trends in the data as the previous year, which shows they are underperforming in the same areas. The report needs to include recommendations based on the data. You know the client was very happy with the recommendations from the previous report, so you wonder if those recommendations could apply this year given the same results.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Include similar recommendations to the prior report as the client was very happy with them and the results look the same.	CLEAR
CLEAR	Spend time looking into the underlying reasons for the trends to see if the recommendations need to be updated.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Discuss the results with your manager to see what they've done in similar situations in the past with other clients.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (2/18)

QUESTION 2

You're in a meeting with a senior colleague from another department, talking them through a market analysis report that you created with another Graduate. It soon becomes clear that there is an obvious error in the financial figures that the other Graduate put together. Your senior colleague is disappointed by this as they need to present the report to a client tomorrow. You explain that you and the other Graduate will fix the error as soon as possible, but the senior colleague is not convinced and wants to reschedule the client presentation. You think the error can be fixed quickly, but the colleague seems upset and wants to end the meeting.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Remain positive that you can help your colleague and contact the other Graduate to see how fast the error can be fixed.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	End the meeting as you're anxious not to upset your colleague further and send them the corrected report as soon as it is ready.	CLEAR
CLEAR	Find out if your manager is available to speak to the senior colleague and rectify the situation.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (3/18)

QUESTION 3

Your manager has asked you to present in a meeting with senior leaders on a major project your team just completed. You only started your rotation in the team a few weeks ago, and although you were directly involved in the project, you still feel relatively new. Your manager thinks presenting at the meeting will be a great way to showcase that project and what your team does. You're concerned that you don't know enough about the project to present at the meeting and answer questions the senior leaders may ask.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Think back to your involvement in the project to prepare the presentation and ask a colleague to review it before the meeting.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Ask your manager if another colleague can present at this meeting so that you can observe them and offer to do it next time.	CLEAR
CLEAR	Talk to your colleagues who were also involved in the project to improve your knowledge so you can present at the meeting.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (4/18)

QUESTION 4

You have been working on a client project for a while now and are due to deliver a final presentation tomorrow. However, the main stakeholder you have been working with has just informed you they are unable to attend and will be sending their colleague instead. You have already prepared the presentation for this meeting, but know that this other stakeholder tends to prefer more technical information, which is not the focus of your current presentation. You could include this, but you know you have addressed the client's issues and have received positive feedback from another Graduate who reviewed it.

CLEAR	See if your manager would have time to look over your presentation before deciding whether to change it.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Use your current presentation as you know you have addressed the client's issues and your fellow Graduate thinks it is good.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Spend time altering your presentation for this other stakeholder as you know they prefer more technical information.	CLEAR

Online Assessments: Situational Test (5/18)

QUESTION 5

You have been working hard with a senior colleague to put together a proposal for a firm-wide fresh ideas initiative. You're looking forward to presenting this back to your team with the help of your senior colleague. However, during the presentation your senior colleague takes the lead and there isn't really an opportunity for you to talk about your ideas. Although you know that your colleague is more experienced and gave an impactful presentation, you were hoping to play a more active role in the presentation. You're doing a similar presentation to another stakeholder group with your colleague next week.

LEAST EFFECTIVE

Try to speak up more next week when you're presenting to another stakeholder group.

MOST EFFECTIVE

CLEAR

Approach your colleague and ask whether next time you can play a more active role when presenting the ideas to the stakeholders.

MOST EFFECTIVE

LEAST EFFECTIVE

Hold back from speaking to your colleague as they are more experienced than you and delivered an impactful presentation.

CLEAR

Online Assessments: Situational Test (6/18)

QUESTION 6

A summer intern will be joining your team next week and will have similar responsibilities to what you had when you initially started. Therefore, your manager thinks you will be best placed to be a buddy to the intern and teach the key tasks. Your manager believes this will be a great opportunity to practise leadership skills, but they also mention that finding time could be challenging considering your already heavy workload. You're keen to be a buddy but not sure how this might affect your ability to perform your normal duties.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Ask your manager to support you in being a buddy to the intern while you wait for your workload to lighten.	CLEAR
CLEAR	Agree to be a buddy to the intern alongside your normal duties and suggest to reassess if changes are needed in a couple of weeks.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Take on the challenge of being a buddy and discuss with your manager how to best manage your normal duties.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (7/18)

QUESTION 7

You have just started a new rotation and are eager to make a good first impression on your new colleagues. Your new team has been very helpful and provided you with resources to familiarise yourself with your daily tasks, but you haven't had much interaction with them. In your previous rotations, you found it helpful to set aside time to meet with your colleagues to introduce yourself. However, it's the end of the quarter and your new colleagues are extremely busy at the moment.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Explain the situation to your manager and see if they have advice on how to get to know your new colleagues during this busy time.	MOST EFFECTIVE
CLEAR	Ask your colleagues for suggestions on when it might be convenient to book an introductory meeting with them.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Take the initiative and organise introductory meetings with your new colleagues as this approach has worked well in the past.	CLEAR

Online Assessments: Situational Test (8/18)

QUESTION 8

You're having a busy day when you get a call from a colleague in a different team. They are seeking your support with a commercial reporting issue. Although you have provided support to their team in the past, there have been some changes recently in the process and you don't think it is your responsibility to support on this issue anymore. However, there is still some confusion about responsibility among some teams, and you're waiting for clarification from your manager. Unfortunately, your manager is out of the office until tomorrow. Your colleague needs to know if you can support them today.

CLEAR	Work out how long it might take you to support your colleague with this issue before deciding how to respond.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Decide to provide support to your colleague today given that responsibilities are still being clarified.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Explain that you need to consult your manager to find out whether you should take responsibility for these issues or not.	CLEAR

Online Assessments: Situational Test (9/18)

QUESTION 9

You're in charge of coordinating an important cross-functional project. It's critical that everyone working on the project is aware of the progress being made, so the project manager has asked you to provide regular updates to all stakeholders. You think it's best to do the updates on a call, as the project is complicated and the stakeholders are likely to have questions about its progress. You could also send out regular email updates. You know that the stakeholders have a lot going on, and you don't want to inconvenience them and potentially hinder your working relationships with them.

LEAST EFFECTIVE — MOST EFFECTIVE

Suggest both options to the project manager and let them decide how to communicate project updates to the stakeholders.

LEAST EFFECTIVE — CLEAR

Send regular email updates to project stakeholders as you're worried that scheduling a call would inconvenience them.

CLEAR — MOST EFFECTIVE

Reach out to the stakeholders and suggest a regular call followed by brief meeting minutes to provide updates on the project.

Online Assessments: Situational Test (10/18)

QUESTION 10

You're part of a team that's preparing to deliver a new financial solution for a client. You attended an internal meeting last week where the project lead described the standard approach for delivering this kind of solution. However, you've now thought of a way to improve this process, which you think could help the client to meet their long-term growth strategy. When you mention the potential change to the project lead, they are reluctant to implement it because the existing process has already been defined.

CLEAR	Mention your idea to other members of the project team and ask for their opinions on whether it could be successful.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Monitor the situation to see how the standard approach goes and bring up the idea again if it's appropriate.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Gather data about how your idea would support the client's growth strategy and share your findings with the project lead.	CLEAR

Online Assessments: Situational Test (11/18)

QUESTION 11

You're in a taxi on your way to a client meeting with a senior colleague, when you realise you forgot to send an email containing some confidential data to your manager. Although the email can wait until tomorrow morning, they had asked for it before you left. You haven't been in your role for long, and you don't want your manager to think badly of you. You're very familiar with the data and know what needs to be communicated, and you have time to send this from your personal account on your mobile phone now. However, you know that it is against policy to send confidential work from personal email accounts.

CLEAR — Adhere to Deutsche Bank's policy and send the email first thing tomorrow morning instead. — MOST EFFECTIVE

LEAST EFFECTIVE — Send the email from your personal account this time as you don't want your manager to think badly of you. — CLEAR

LEAST EFFECTIVE — Explain the situation to the senior colleague to see how they think you should approach the issue. — MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (12/18)

QUESTION 12

Your manager recently asked you to analyse some client data to identify potential products that meet their investment needs. Your manager is planning to pitch the final set of product options to the client in two weeks. However, they need the results of your analysis within the next two days so they have enough time to review what you've done and create the pitch. You need to settle on the best approach to identify the potential product options and share your findings with your manager.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Weigh the strengths of the different product options in your analysis so you only share the best solutions with your manager.	CLEAR
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Set up a meeting with your manager to discuss how they want you to handle the analysis and share the results.	MOST EFFECTIVE
CLEAR	Present all viable options to your manager and the supporting data so they can choose the best solutions for the pitch.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (13/18)

QUESTION 13

Your manager has asked you to review project progress documents from different departments for an ongoing automation project. These documents should be in a standard format to reduce the risk of errors. You soon realise that one department is not using the correct format for their documents. Their documents are fragmented and you're struggling to understand them. You explain to the department's representative that this could expose the project to errors, but they tell you this is how they have always recorded project progress and they have not encountered any problems before.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Explain the situation to your manager and ask if they are comfortable with the documents being in a different format.	CLEAR
CLEAR	Ask the representative to update the documents to the correct format and highlight the importance of using it going forward.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Accept the documents in a different format but ask the department's representative to use the correct format next time.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (14/18)

QUESTION 14

A client calls you to log a technical issue with their service. You have already spent a while typing up the details of the client's situation, when the notes application suddenly crashes and deletes the information you have gathered so far. You think you remember most of what the client told you, but you might be missing some key details without your notes. You're aware the client has already experienced a technical issue with their service, so you're wondering if explaining the application crash might irritate them further.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Complete your notes based on what you can remember as you're concerned that explaining the issue might irritate the client.	CLEAR
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Ask some of the questions again and see if you can remember the answers correctly before deciding how to proceed.	MOST EFFECTIVE
CLEAR	Explain that you're experiencing a technical issue and calmly confirm the missing information with the client.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (15/18)

QUESTION 15

You're about to finish a report based on an acquisition modelling analysis when you notice an error in the data. The error is trivial and has little impact on the overall results. The typical process used to correct errors involves documenting your steps which will likely take you a while. You know this documentation process is in place so that others can follow and replicate the analysis easily. However, you're already working on a tight deadline as a senior associate is waiting to review the report, and you could just fix the error without documenting it easily.

CLEAR	Follow the process for correcting the error so that your analysis can be followed and update the senior associate on your progress.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Review the process to see if there are any areas where you could potentially shorten it to save time.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Fix the error without documenting it on this occasion and mention to the senior associate that you have done this to save time.	CLEAR

Online Assessments: Situational Test (16/18)

QUESTION 16

You're on the phone with a client, helping them understand the functionality of a product that another colleague recommended during a consultation. The client explains that they find the product difficult to understand. You walk the client through the key information but they are still struggling to understand and become quite upset because of this. You're trying your best to explain the product, but the client is no longer engaged and seems frustrated with your responses. You're a little disappointed by how the client is reacting and believe they are being unfair to you.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Offer to send a written explanation of the product's functionality to the client so they can go over it in their own time.	CLEAR
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Conceal how you feel about the client's reaction and continue trying to help them understand the product.	MOST EFFECTIVE
CLEAR	Tell the client that you're doing your best but that perhaps it would be better if you could get your manager to take their call.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (17/18)

QUESTION 17

You're working with three other colleagues on a client service improvement initiative overseen by a senior manager. The goal is to prepare a presentation for senior leaders at Deutsche Bank with your recommendations. You have a week left before the project is due and so each of you have a busy schedule planned to help you complete your assigned tasks on time. This morning one of the colleagues you're working with has had to leave the office as they were feeling unwell. They're not likely to return until next week. The senior manager is out of the office today visiting a client, and you're concerned that the project will not be completed on time without the contributions of your absent colleague.

CLEAR	Bring up the issue with the other two colleagues and see if they have any ideas on how to sort out this issue today.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Discuss the issue with the senior manager when they return tomorrow so that they can determine the best way forward.	CLEAR
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Take charge of distributing your absent colleague's tasks amongst the team to ensure the project is completed on time.	MOST EFFECTIVE

Online Assessments: Situational Test (18/18)

QUESTION 18

Next week you will be starting a new rotation. You have received positive feedback on your performance so far. However, you're yet to get any feedback on your work for a large ongoing initiative, which involved working with Graduates from other departments. Before moving to your next rotation, you think it would be useful to know how the quality of your work on this initiative compares to the firm's standards. One of the senior managers is sponsoring this cross-departmental initiative so your manager has not been involved directly.

LEAST EFFECTIVE	Explain the situation to your manager to see if they think feedback on your performance on this initiative will be beneficial.	MOST EFFECTIVE
CLEAR	Wait until the end of the initiative as the senior manager sponsoring it might provide feedback to the whole team.	MOST EFFECTIVE
LEAST EFFECTIVE	Ask the senior manager sponsoring the initiative for feedback on your performance so you can continue to improve.	CLEAR
